

THE VENTURE SEEKERS

THE DATE NIGHT IDEAS JAR

Dinner and a movie isn't always it. Find ways to laugh, try something new, and grow the fun and love in your marriage. One jar, endless dates.

HOW TO USE YOUR JAR

1. Print pages 2 and 3 (cardstock works best).
2. Cut along the dotted lines, one idea per card.
3. Fold each one and drop them in a jar, bowl, or pretty box.
4. Pick one whenever you need a reset. No overthinking.
5. Add your own as you go. The best dates become traditions.

1

Let the kids pick each other's outfit on a $15 thrift store budget, then go out wearing it.

2

Hit a ropes or aerial obstacle course together.

3

Sneak away to a water park, just the two of you.

4

Grab pizza and hit balls at the driving range.

5

Wander a farmers market and pick out something neither of you has tried.

6

Take out from your favorite spot, eaten somewhere with the best sunset view.

7

Book an escape room and see who actually solves it.

8

Sign up for a class together (cooking, pottery, dance, anything new).

9

Catch a live concert, even a small local one.

10

Go to a comedy show and laugh until your cheeks hurt.

11

Watch your wedding video and dance to your first dance song.

12

Pick a brand new movie, grab takeout, and eat it snuggled in bed.

13

Try a glass blowing class, weird, beautiful, totally different.

14

Build the ultimate charcuterie board together and call it dinner.

15

Stargaze from the back of the car with blankets and snacks.

1

Drive somewhere new with no plan and see where you end up.

2

Plan your next big trip together over coffee and a notebook.

3

Do a coffee shop crawl, one drink each, three different places.

4

Try a paint and sip style class (sub the wine for whatever you love).

5

Walk a botanical garden or arboretum together.

6

Mini golf, loser buys dessert.

7

Pick a recipe neither of you has made and cook it side by side.

8

Go thrifting and find each other the most ridiculous outfit under $10.

9

Sunrise breakfast date before the kids wake up.

10

Visit a local museum or gallery you've never been to.

11

Indoor skydiving, axe throwing, or something that gets the adrenaline going.

12

Bookstore date, each pick a book for the other to read.

13

Build a backyard fire, s'mores, and a phones down conversation.

14

Take a dance class together, even if you're terrible at it.

15

Surprise night, one of you plans everything, the other just shows up.
